

John Bird
MA, In Progress
Title TBD

John Bird is from Portage la Prairie, Manitoba, and graduated with a history-focused BA in humanities from Briercrest College in 2011. He has lived in every province in Western Canada as well as St.

Petersburg, Russia. He now lives in Saskatoon with his wife Olivia and is enjoying the MA history program at the University of Saskatchewan. His work focuses on the earliest First Nations writers in English, specifically the 19th-century celebrity George Copway. Cultural, religious, and Anishinaabe history as well as colonialism, First Nations, and ethnohistory form the framework of his broader areas of study.
