

Land Titles Building

Built in 1909 by Storey and Van Egmond, this building housed our land titles offices from 1909 until 1987. During the boom years of Saskatoon, people seeking to file a land-title claim crowded the steps every day. The building was made of fireproof brick and stone - crucial to a facility where important documents would be stored.

Above the doorway is the provincial crest, (wheat and a lion) and the date of construction in roman numerals. When was the Land Titles Building built?
