

Safety Training at the University of Saskatchewan

Safety Resources offers a wide variety of safety training courses, and these courses can be accessed through our website: <https://safetyresources.usask.ca>

Every employee on campus must take Safety Orientation for Employees. Your work supervisor is required to inform you of other safety training required for your position.

To register for safety training:

- Go to <https://safetyresources.usask.ca>
- Click on the GREEN BUTTON – “Register for Training!”
- Choose from the list of courses offered
 - For in-class training, register for a course offering that works with your schedule
 - For online training, register and complete the course offering at your convenience (NOTE: Courses must be completed one month from the time of registration)
- Log in using your NSID credentials (xxx####)
- Complete your training
 - Be punctual for in-class training
 - Certificates for online courses are issued the next business day via email

Please check your training records on the Safety Resources website to see when you will need to retrain.

To access your training records using the steps below:

- Go to <https://safetyresources.usask.ca>
- Click on the “Register for Training!” button
- On the right-hand side, click “Profile”
- Log in using your NSID credentials
- Your training history will be shown in a table
 - Note the “Date Course Taken” for your training

Contact Safety Resources (306.966.4765 or safetyresources@usask.ca) if you have any questions regarding safety training.
